

Something New!!!

ONJ proudly announces a historic addition to its repertoire - its first children's opera production!

Written by composer Hans Krasa, Brundibar is a beautiful children's story extolling the virtues of courage, cooperation, and collective action against tyranny. Even the natural world of dogs, cats, and sparrows help in the fight against injustice.

A classic story of good defeating evil, this tale teaches how the power of music can make miracles happen.

Join us as we rise up in outrage and rebellion, and make it home each night in time for dinner!

Adventures in Opera Kids Camp 2010

What's going on this summer?

- Following in the footsteps of the children of the Terezin concentration camp, your child will re-create history as they perform in Brundibar.
- Written during WWII, this opera was used as a form of resistance against Nazi Germany, due to its positive message of triumph.
- Campers may attend a single week, but are strongly encouraged to attend both weeks of camp in order to maximize their performance experience.

- Week One provides a foundation for the production, giving historical insight, and preparing everyone for a Friday run-through.
- Week Two transforms the children into an acting troupe of their own with the help of costumes, sets, and props - all in anticipation of the full performance on July 23rd.
- Campers with all types of performance levels and backgrounds are invited to attend this one-of-a-kind camp!
